

Instructor – Search and Rescue Programs

Job Overview

Rocky Mountain Adventure Medicine is looking for experienced instructors to join our highly qualified team. The position is part time, with training programs running year-round. Training will begin in February 2026, in readiness for spring programs. Courses are offered throughout the province of Alberta; therefore, travel will be required. If you are an experienced instructor with Search and Rescue experience, we would love to hear from you.

Instructor Role description:

- Deliver engaging, informative and highly practical Search and Rescue Basics, Team Leader and basic Wilderness First Aid to clients.
- Provide hands-on learning that builds skills, enhances confidence and empowers course participants.
- Teach content that aligns with RMAM programs and medical direction.
- Engage positively and communicate effectively with students.
- Manage and organize equipment and paperwork before, during and after each course.
- Represent RMAM in a professional manner.

Requirements:

- Experience as a SAR Team member
- Trained as a Team Leader or higher.
- Wilderness / backcountry experience.
- Excellent communication skills.
- Strong interpersonal skills.
- Flexible availability.
- Ability to work well as part of a team.
- While preference will be given to candidates with previous teaching experience, individuals with extensive SAR background and relevant medical experience will be considered.
- Ability / willingness to travel throughout Alberta.
